

Design Integration Review

02 November - 03
November 2016

The purpose of the Design Integration Review was to gather all personnel working on the TALOS project and define the final prototype form factor. This included all elements from industry, academia and DoD that are working to deliver the advanced combat suit in August of 2018. Each functional area comprising the TALOS presented their recommendations and refined vision to the greater TALOS team over a three-day period.

Event Outcomes

- Focused the greater TALOS team on the pathway forward
- It was held in an open forum which encouraged collaboration from all participants, regardless of specialty
- Concerns and ideas were generated which increased the integration of the TALOS sub-components
- Follow-up actions were generated and delegated to the various functional leads
- Compartmented industry partners were presented the strategic way forward in order to better understand where their contributions would tie into the major effort
- Resulted in a much further refined design plan for the TALOS
